Claims What is claimed is:

1(currently amended). A plumbing fixture comprising having a housing with at least one , an installation opening, a line exiting from the housing at the its installation opening, a further line routed through the at least one installation opening back into in the housing of the plumbing fixture, and a quick-connect connector that connects together the ends of the two lines arranged outside the housing of the plumbing fixture with one another, wherein said ends of the two lines are provided with fittings that are insertable into the quick-connect connector and are latchable into place there, wherein the ends of the lines can be disconnected from the connector without using tools, and wherein detenting and latching of the connector and the fittings is generated by deforming parts of the connector.

2(currently amended). A plumbing fixture according to claim 1, wherein the quick-connect connector comprises is a plug-in connector.

3(canceled).

4(canceled).

5(canceled).

6(currently amended). A plumbing fixture according to claim $\underline{1}$ $\underline{3}$, wherein the fittings are soldered \underline{to} the ends of the lines.

7(currently amended). A plumbing fixture fixutre according to claim $\underline{1}$ $\underline{3}$, wherein the fittings are adhesively bonded to the ends of the lines.

8(currently amended). A plumbing fixture according to claim 1, wherein one of the lines to be interconnected comprises is a pipe and the other comprises is a hose.

SN 10/613,345 – Amended Claims - Response under 37 C.F.R. §1.111

9(currently amended). A plumbing fixture according to claim 1, wherein the connector comprises is a monolithic, plastic connector.

10(canceled).

11(canceled).